

SUIGHURS
FC

Vs

175 FC

TACTICAL ANALYSIS

OVERVIEW

Suighurs FC's second ever outing will be against the same team as their first i.e 175 FC where 175 FC were battered 5-17. 175 FC remain unchanged while Suighurs fc have two changes- Gaurav replaces serial bagger Kalaimaran while Aman replaces versatile SJ.

The tie is expected to be way more closer than the last time because Suighurs FC will be without their top g/a provider kalaimaran and wall between the posts SJ.

To get a result, it is without any doubt that all Suighurs should be at their best. Suighurs are more than capable to win that match but overconfidence should not even be a thing. Players must make sure that they follow Suighurs FC's non-negotiables.

Everyone might think this is just a mickey mouse match but even if that's the case, it is important for us to have an identity and play with attacking and defensive patterns, if possible, throughout the game.

Then you have to convince the players and get them on board with what you are doing, and after that you can start to build. But the identity is the foundation for everything.

SUIGHURS FC

ANALYSIS

POSITIVES:

- Have a group of players who know each other very well and have played together on many occasions,so pattern play will be better,as does chemistry.
- Have a group of unselfish players.
- Are very good at defending that is arguably better than the other team.
- Atleast 2-3 players are good at passing and have great vision for channels and spaces.
- Majority of team is athletic .
- Team is very physical.
- Have 2 PnP players.
- Have someone who knows pattern play is very needed no matter how important the match is.
- Have way better football IQ than the opponents.

NEGATIVES:

- Not all players have good stamina.
- Not as good at dribbling than the other team
- Don't have a recognized gk and gks will be rotated throughout the match.
- Team looks too defensive on paper.
- Might be too overconfident owing to the last tie between the sides.
- Don't have a clear position/role for each player on the team.
- Have obtuse players with their egos touching their crotch who don't want any tactics and positional play and instead want to play sufferball, which is first on the list of things not to do in football.

175 FC

POSITIVES:

- Have very athletic group of players.
- Very good at dribbling.
- Can shoot accurately from a distance.
- Team is attack biased.

NEGATIVES:

- Very selfish group of players.
- Zero recognized defenders or goalkeepers.
- Have no idea of position/role of each player.
- No tactics
- Have Football IQ worse than an average Barca and Man united fan.
- Might easily give up if they go behind on too many goals.

TACTICAL OVERVIEW:

- The team is expected to use tactics and patterns for atleast few minutes of the game, but would be great if they do it for majority of the game.

- The team is expected to play beautiful and attractive football throughout the game .
- Team is expected to play out from the back ,not employ haram tactics or hoof the ball the first chance we get.

- The team is expected to employ concepts/tactical styles such as gegenpress,route one,catenaccio.

- The team must follow the principle of jdp, which will be explained later in the next pages.
- Heavy rotation of positions would be done throughout the game.
- Interchange of both forwards during press will be applied.
- The team will be pressing as well a counter-pressing, intensity and tempo must be high and fast respectively.

JDP:

- Juego de posicio or positional play is one of the most successful tactics ever and the way forward in modern football.

- It is most popularly used by Pep Guardiola in all of his teams like Barcelona, Bayern Munchen, Man city.
- Young and upcoming coaches like Mikel Arteta and Roberto De Zerbi too employ this highly attractive and efficient tactic.

- The overriding objective of 'el juego de posicion' is to find, or create, the free man through using these superiorities but also by establishing a positional discipline among players. The concept of the free man refers to generating a situation where a player is "free" from any defenders – with time and space.
- In effect, this means playing the ball to a player that can receive to turn and take two or more touches. The concept of the free man is the main concept of positional play and without it this model of play cannot function properly.

- It enables the side to play with an extra man which gives the side numerical supremacy as well as the ability to penetrate lines
- To apply this ability of every player on the team is very important, but for now, this method could be used on a lower scale.

- Additionally, this style makes the team a possession based one which is very needed in modern football.

KICKOFF

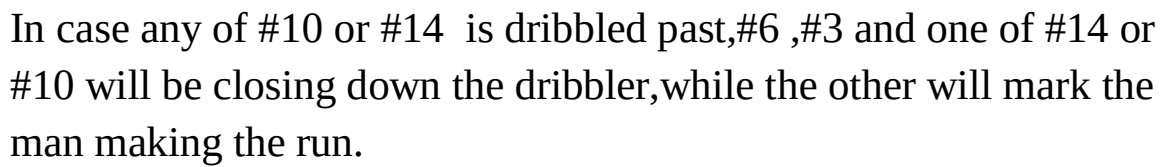

Right after kickoff, #10 will be pressing #2 while #14 takes on #4 and #6 inverts in case #2 dribbles towards the centre, else #6 will be go towards the touchline. #3 takes the cb position.

PRESSING

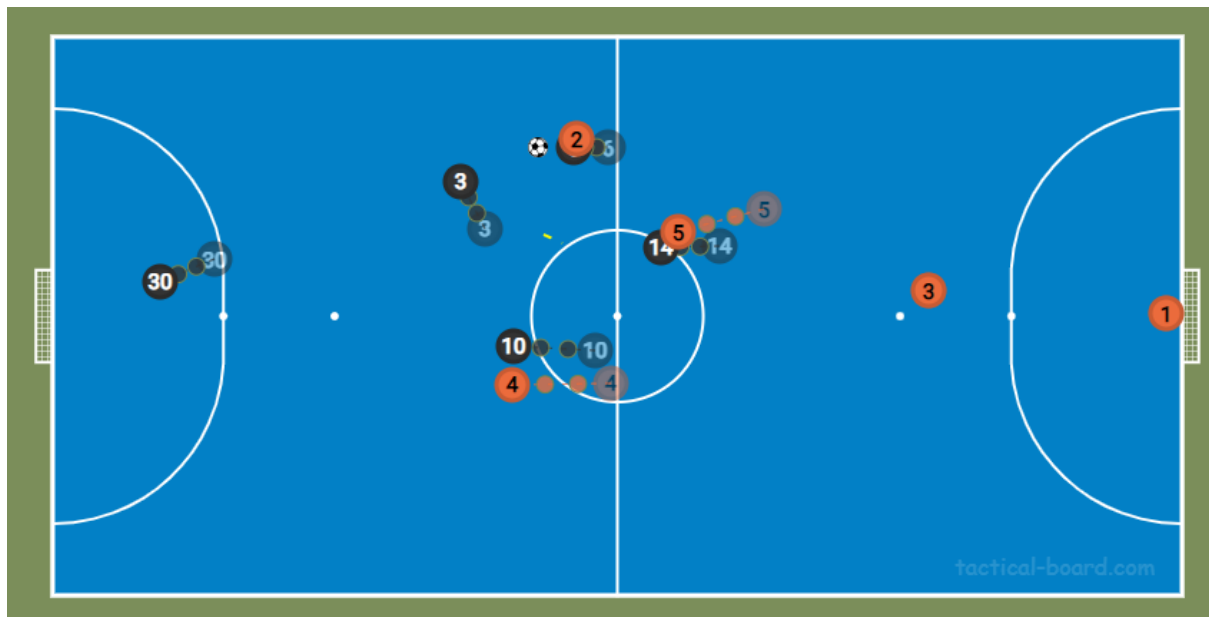

Gegenpress will be followed for most part of the game with #14 as the pressing forward whose role will be occasionally interchanged with #10.

Opponents will play out from the back almost every time so, we should focus on closing down the opponents as early as possible and force errors that might result in goal. It is to note that the opponents aren't great at beating press.

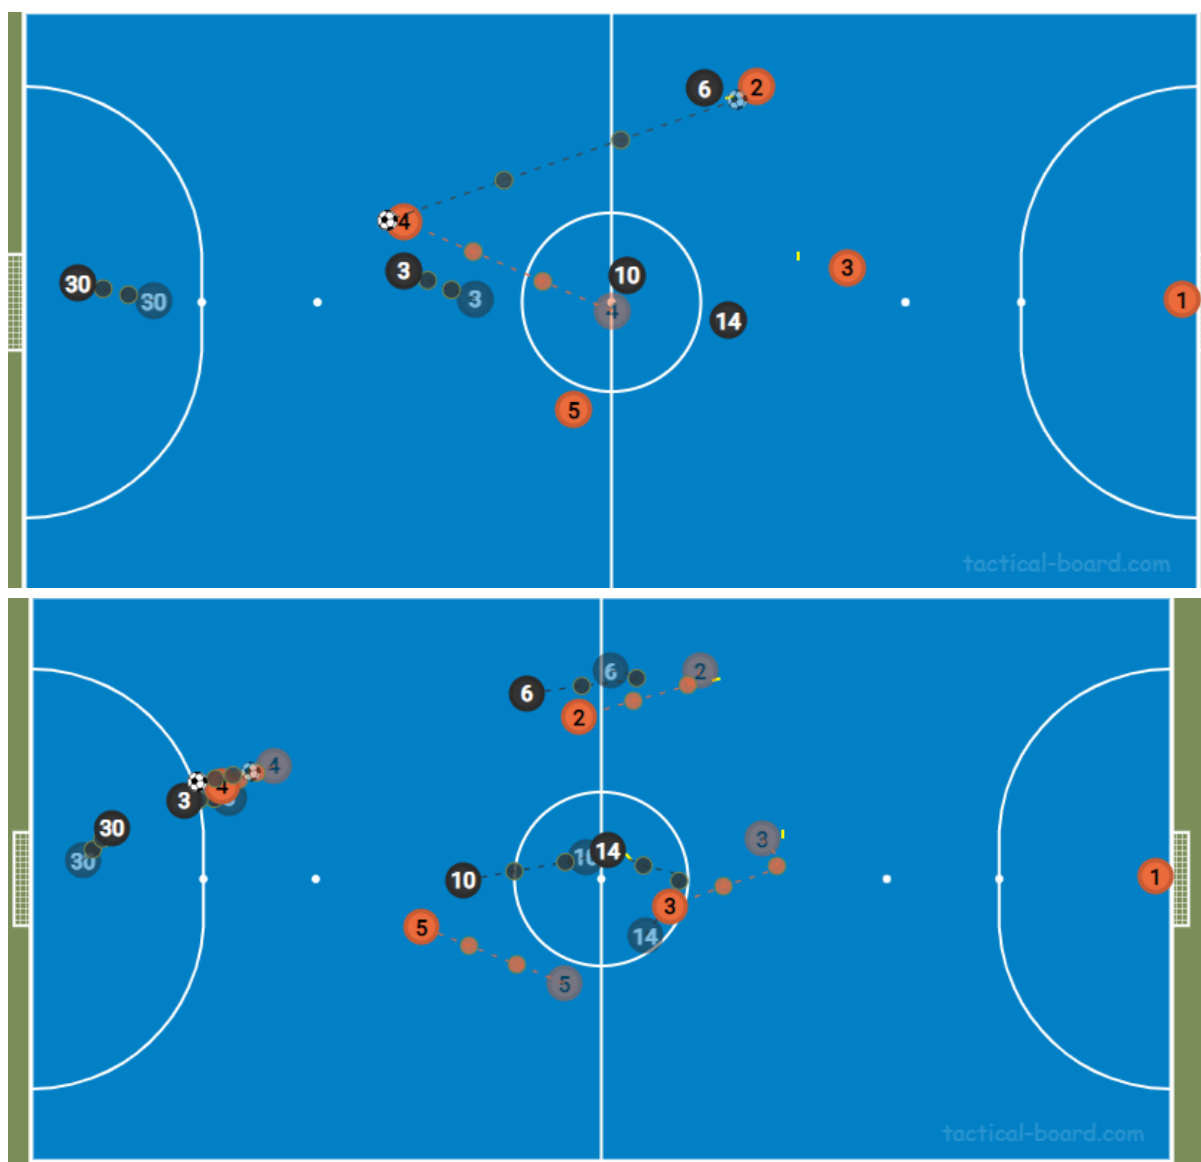

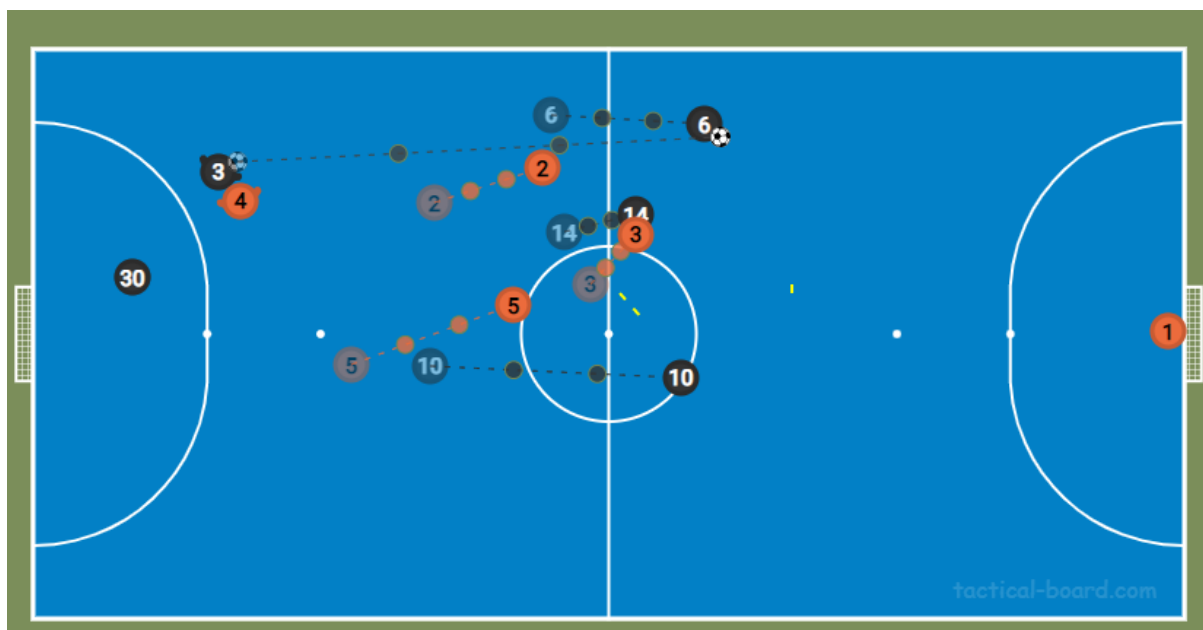

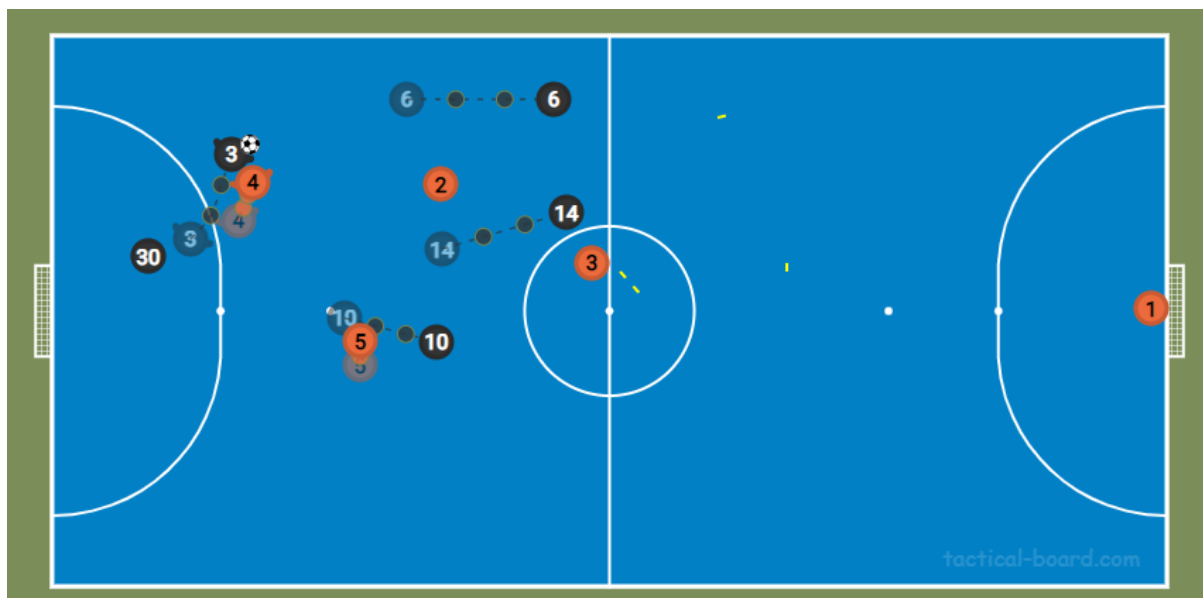

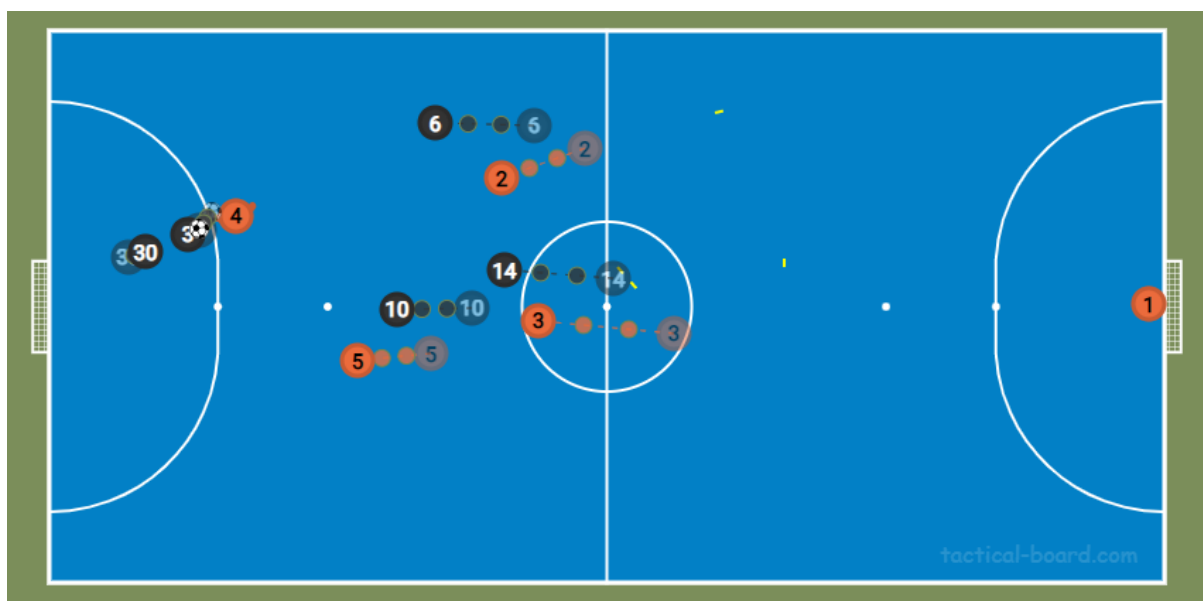

[illegible]

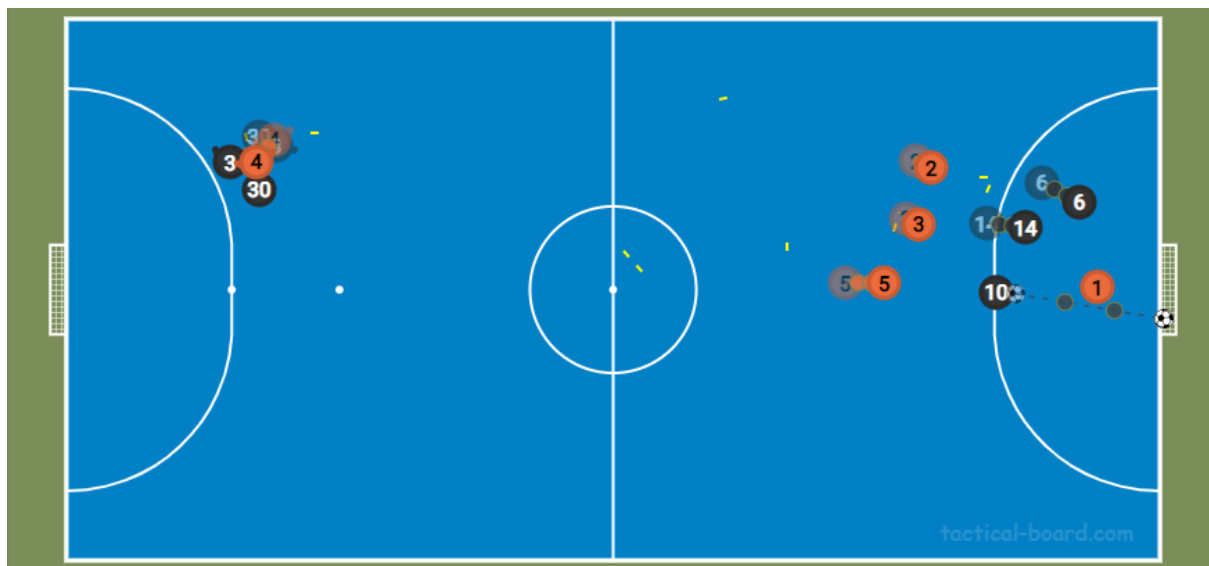

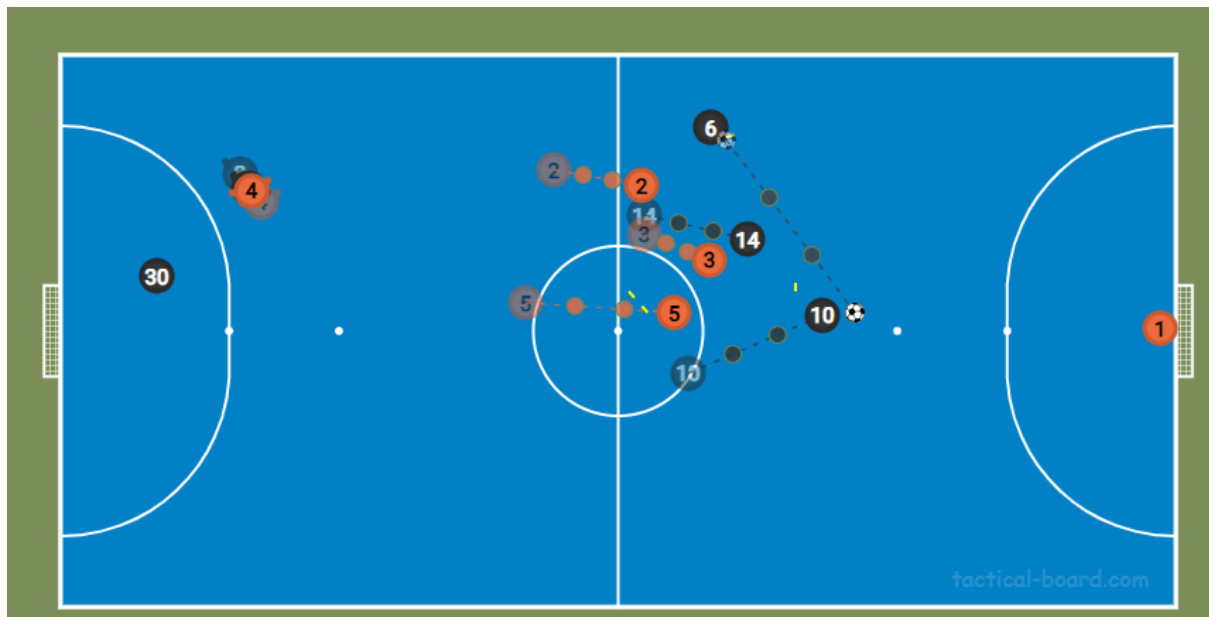

#6 will use his physicality and pace to get the ball off the runner while #3 simultaneously closes him down incase #6 isn't successful. #10 and #14 take on men and mark them throughout the period of play.

SCORING AGAINST RUN OF PLAY

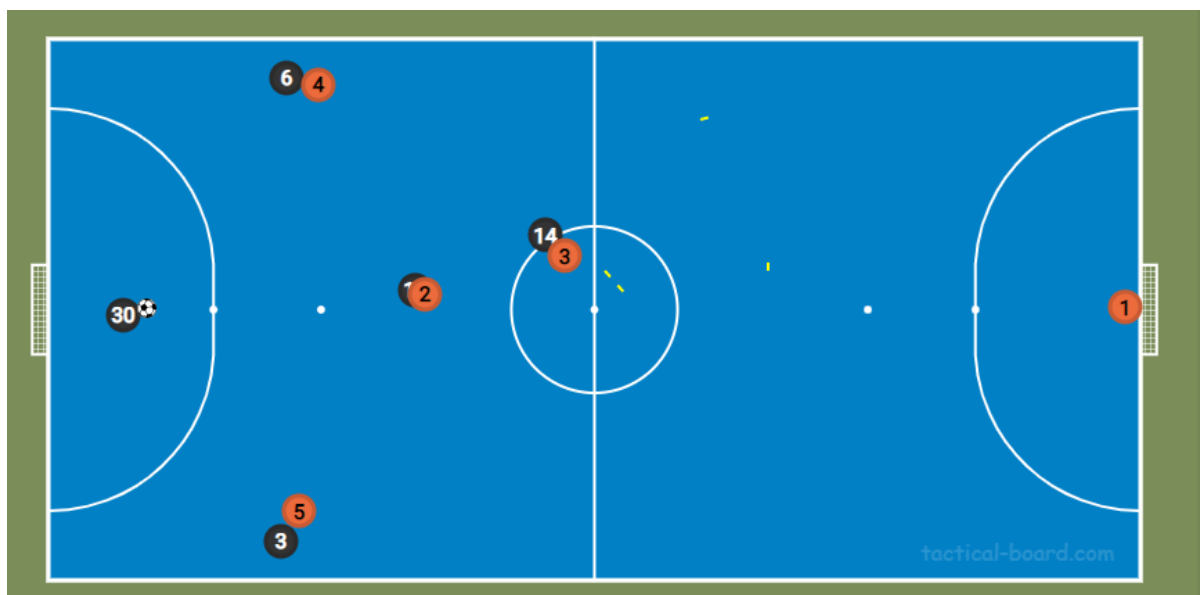

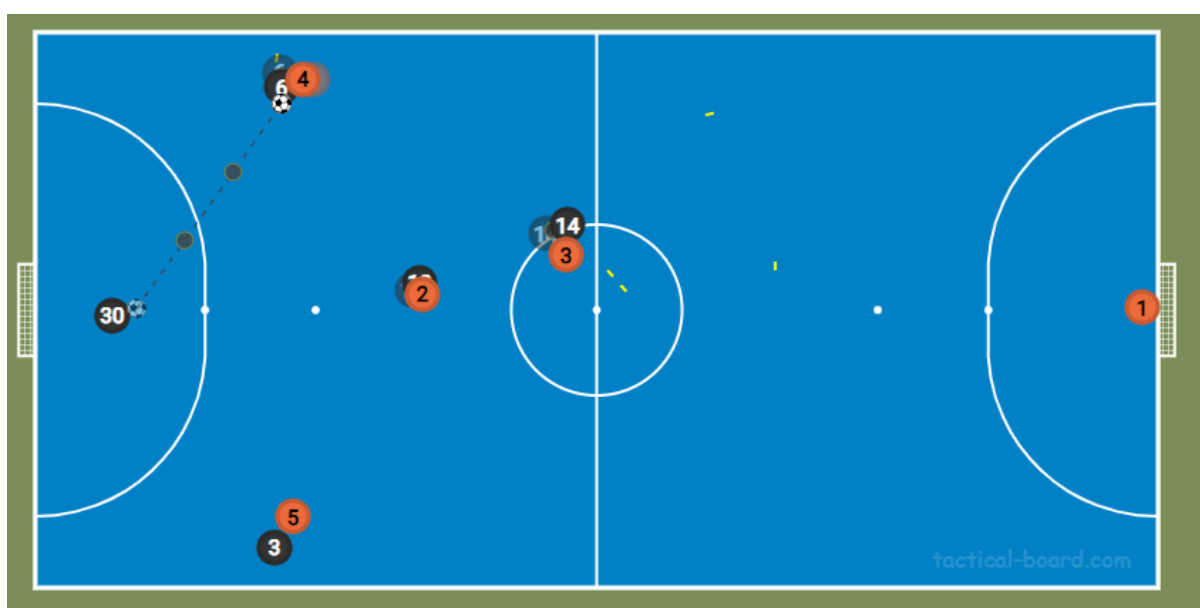

When #3 gets the ball near our post, all of the outfield players will have to find space to enable #3 to pass to the best option depending upon the marking of opps.

Once the outfield player gets the ball, other players are expected to make themselves available for a possible pass which could result into a goal.

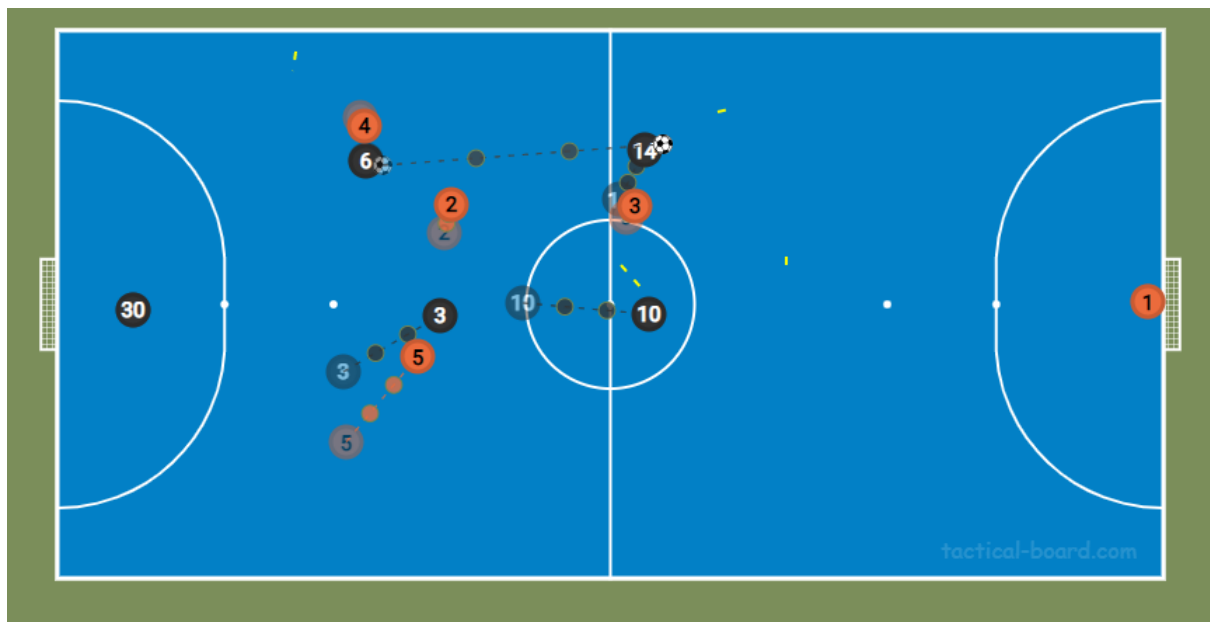

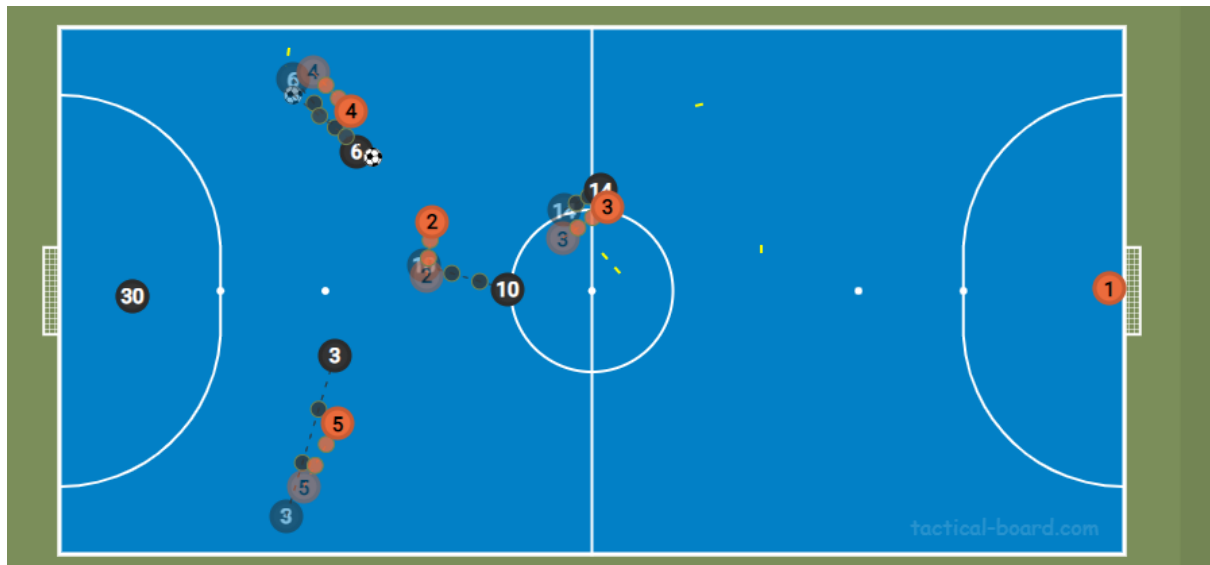

PLAYING OUT FROM THE BACK

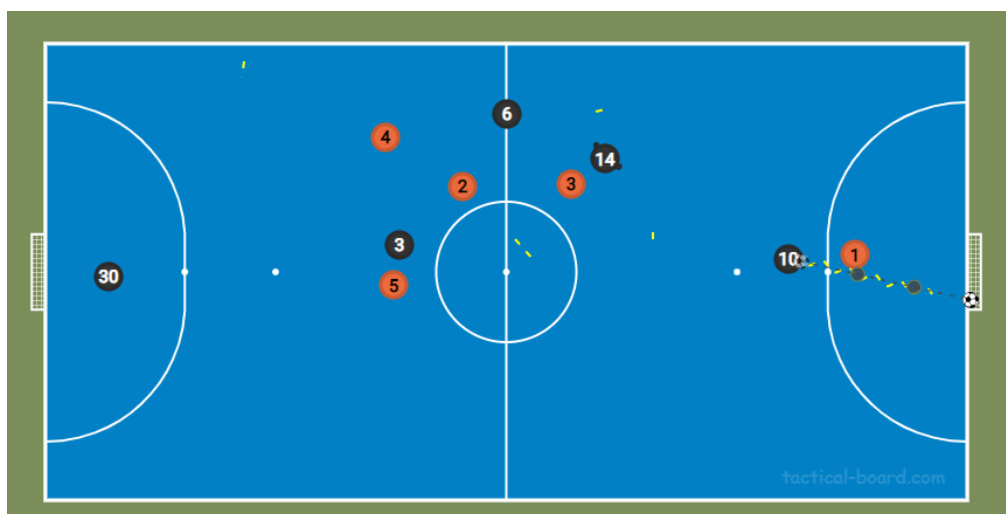

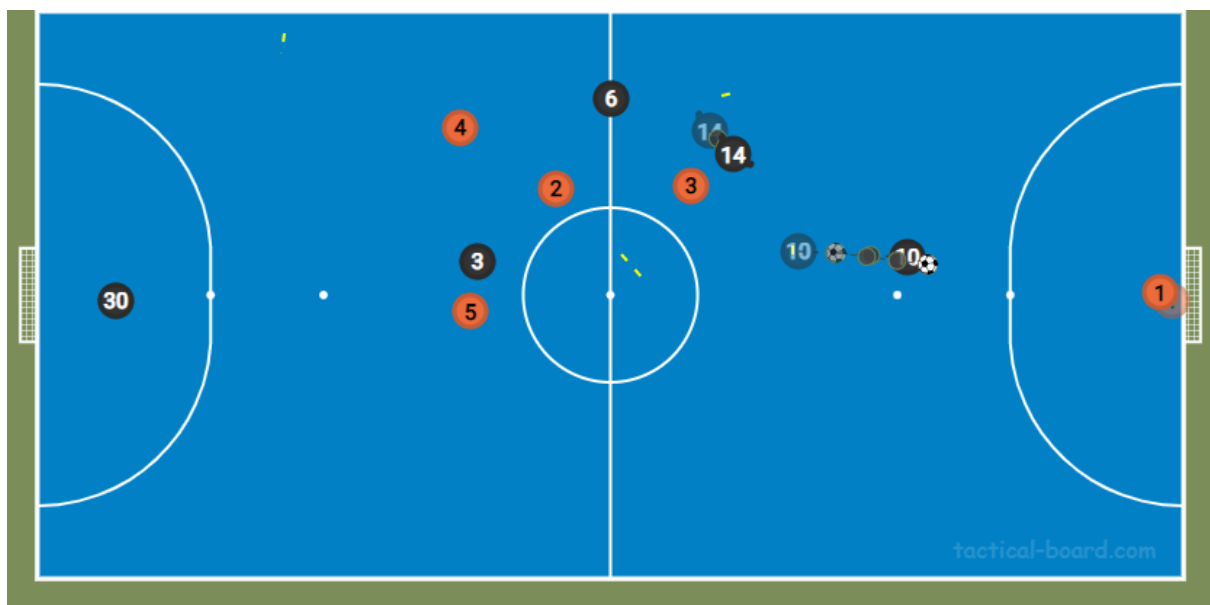

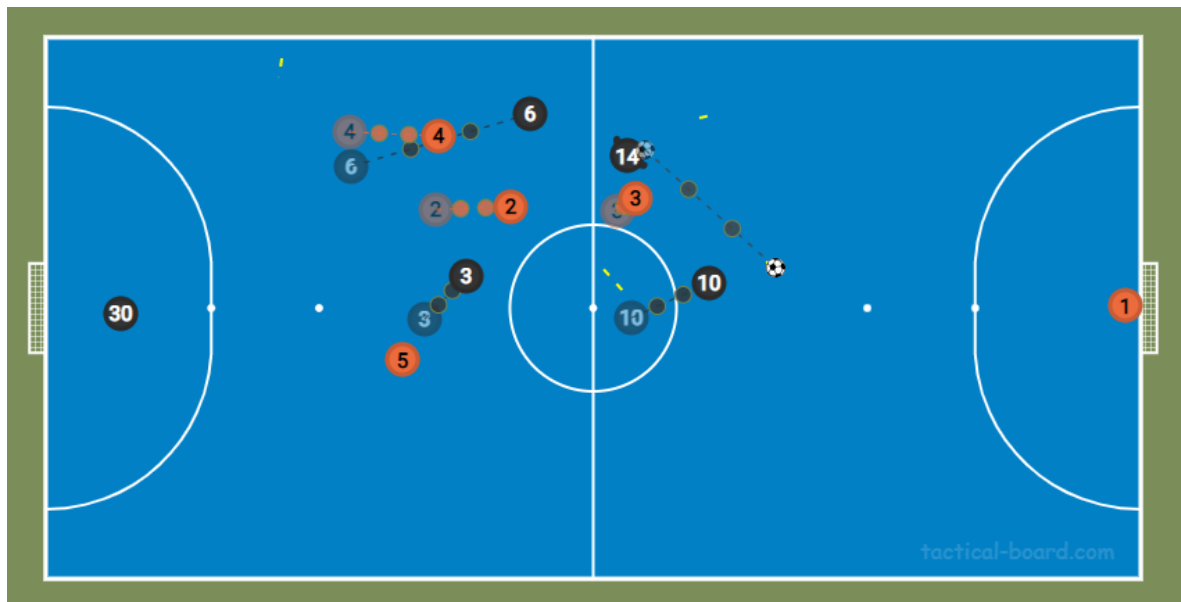

Formation during goalkicks. #3 and #6 will be on either side of the flanks while #10 appears to drop deep and #14 is towards #6 side and makes himself available for pass because the most likely pass is to #6.

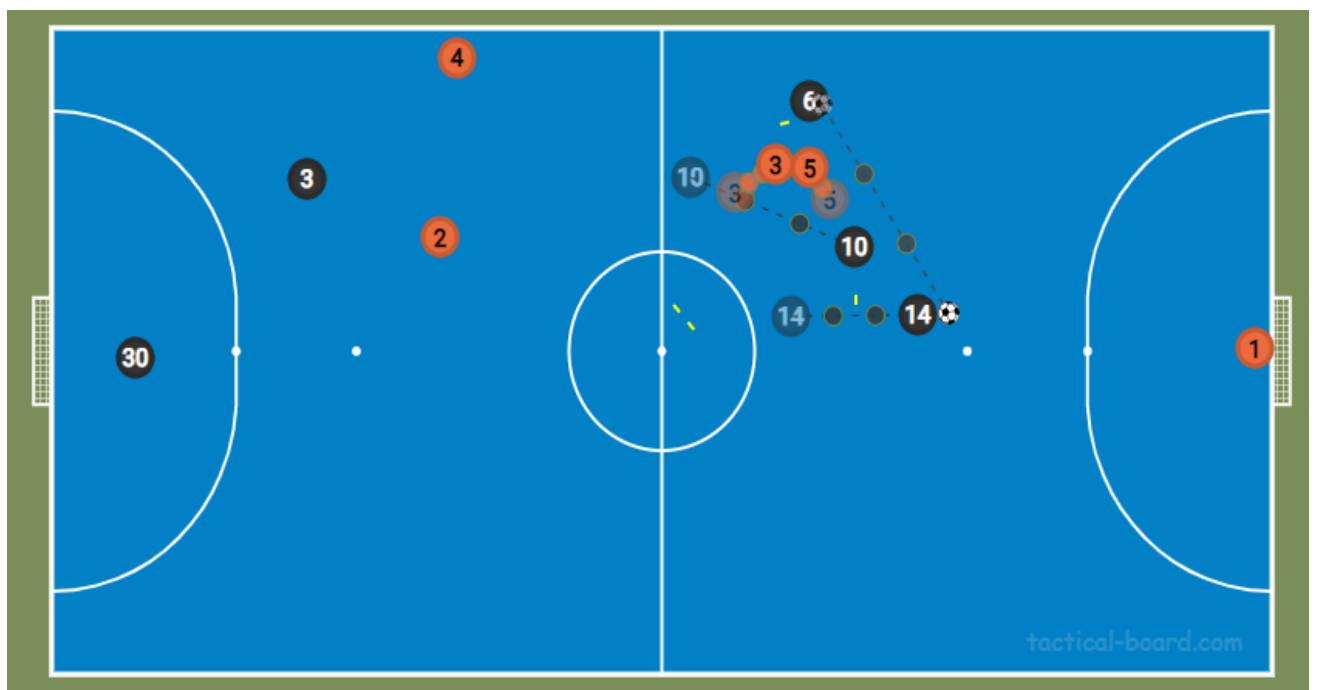

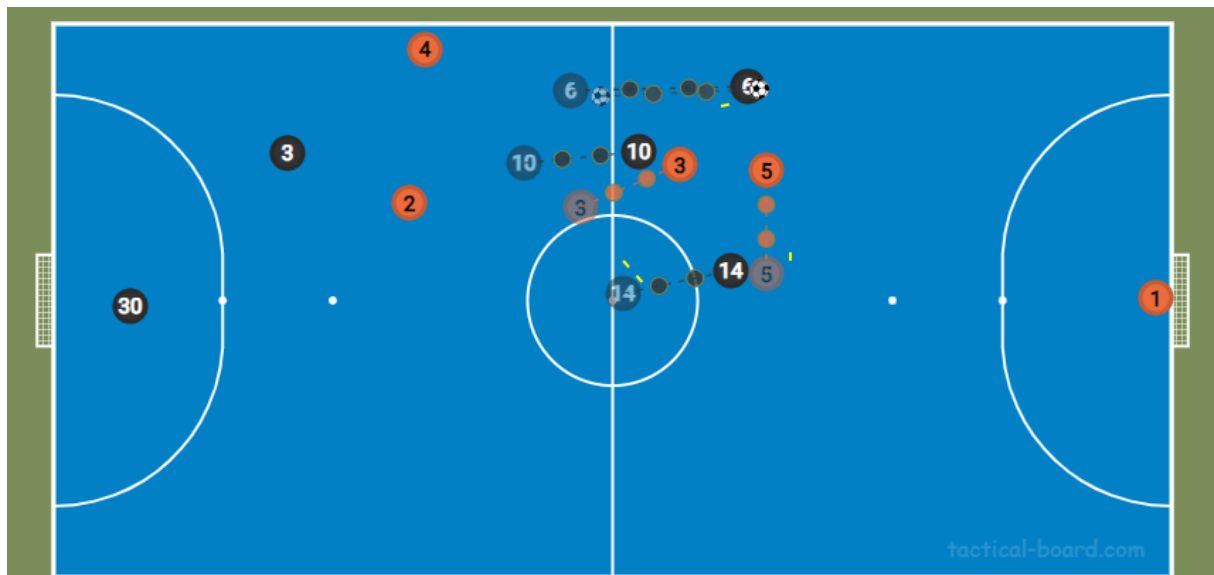

Right when gk passes to 36, #10 will drop a bit deeper to attract man and find space for #6 to pass to #14. #14 starts his run .

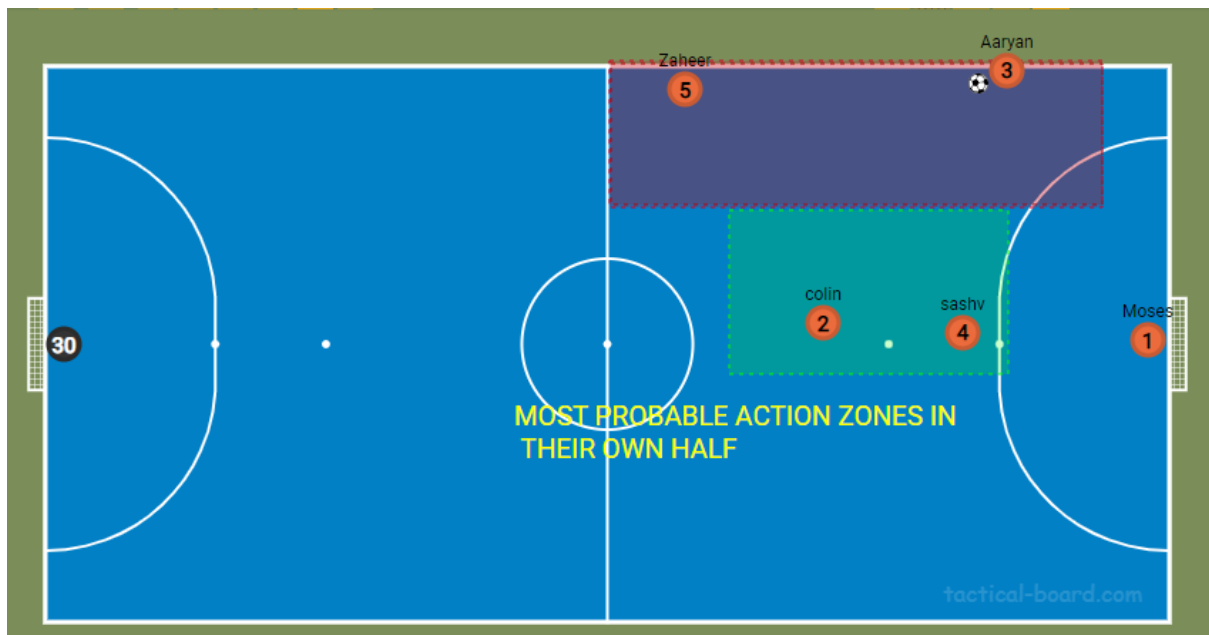

#6 beats his man using pace, #3 inverts to the midfield (takes up cm position), #14 gets the ball and finds a free #10, who will then use his ability to beat the gk.

175 FC (small club)

Most probably formation during goalkicks.

Zaheer and Aaryan are very good dribblers and are pacy.

Colin is the fastest player but to note, he doesn't use his pace much during football.

Sashvath too would have his exceptional moments in the game and is unpredictable.

Goalkeeping is their worst area and are expected to leak in many goals.

Team is not very good at tracking back and is mostly going to be 1v1 once we penetrate lines.

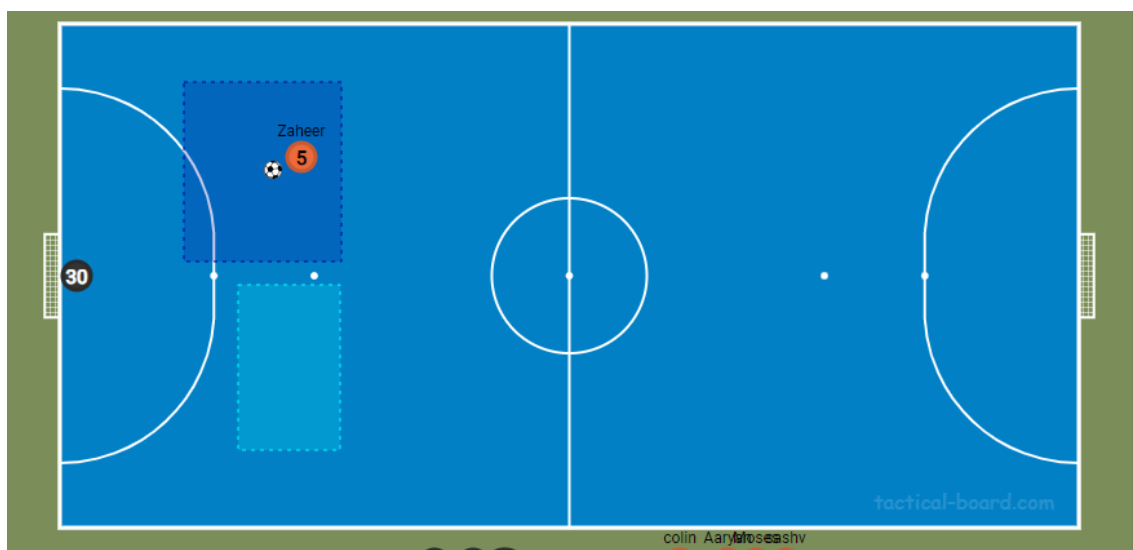

Their shooting accuracy is great.

The team has a right side bias and will carry out almost every attack from the right flank.

Zaheer and Aaryan are going to have many passes between them and will carry out many 1-2s. So it is important to keep marking both at all points of the game.

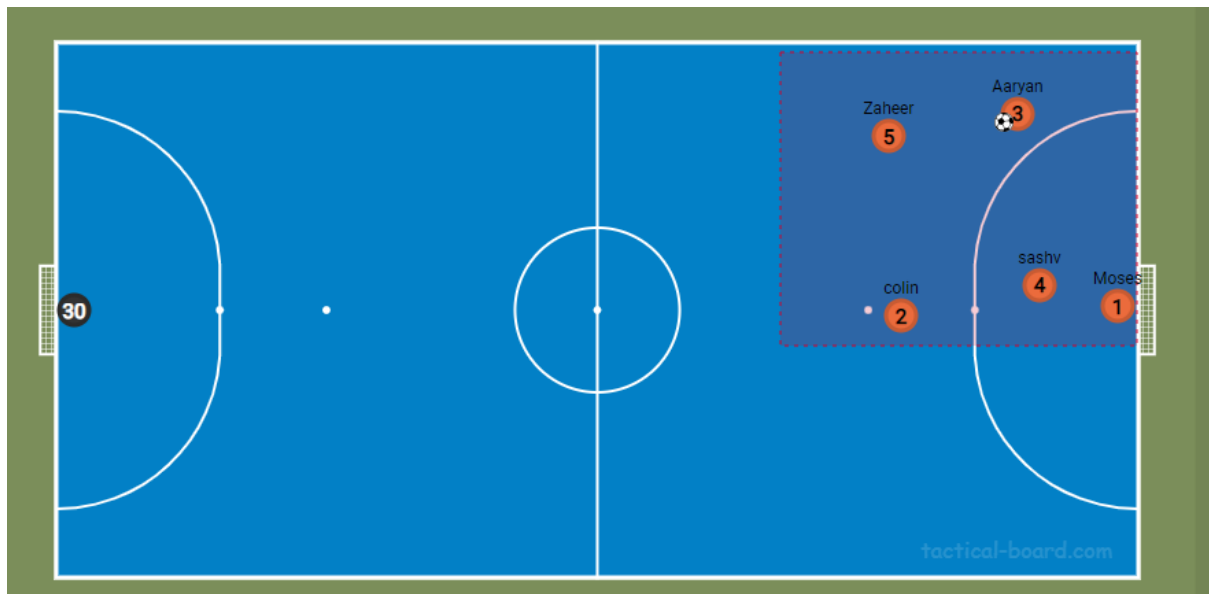

Their defense is not that good and 2-3 passes or dribbles will be enough for us to reach the goalkeeper.

Zaheer is most expected to shoot from a distance, with most probable zones marked.

Moses is their best presser but he will spend the majority of the game inbetween the posts.

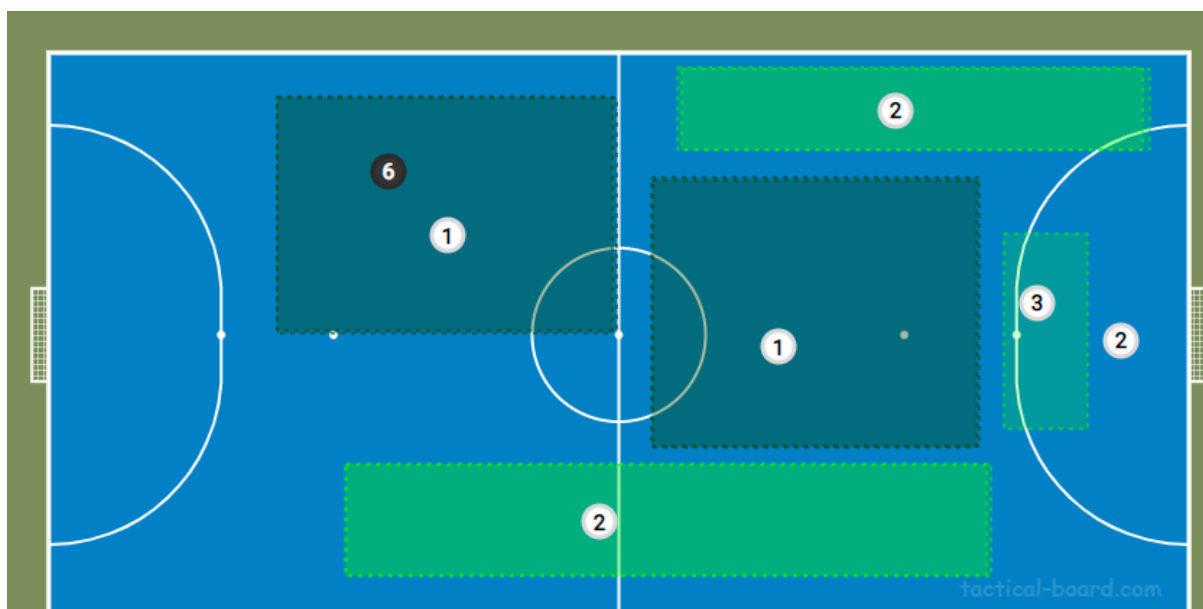

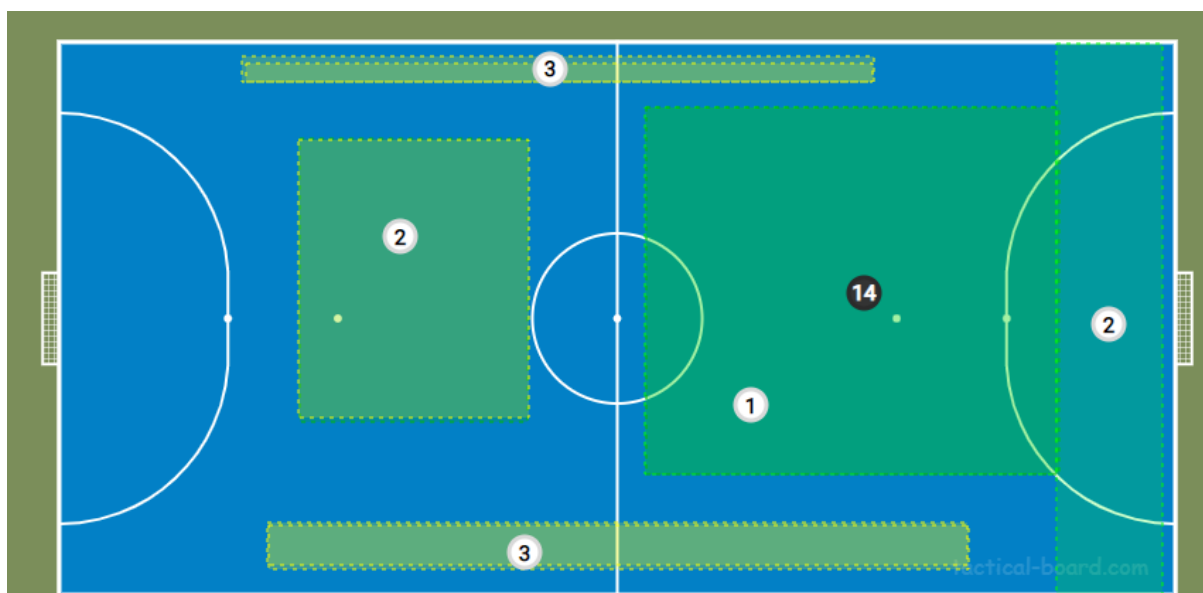

Their tempo will not be fast due to too much dribbling and they are very rarely expected score against run of play or penetrate lines.

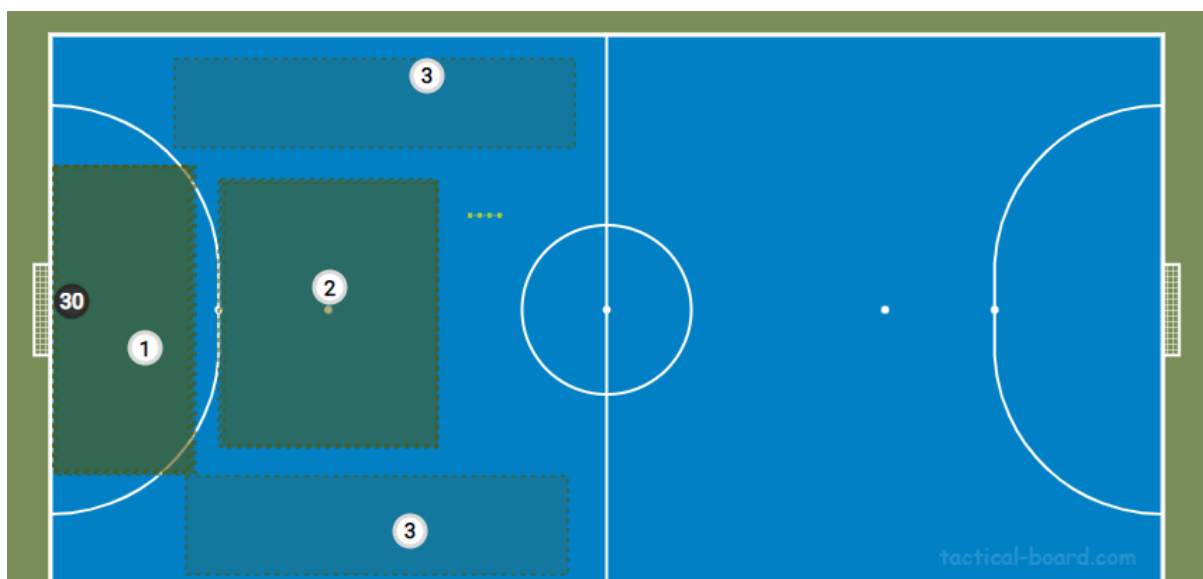

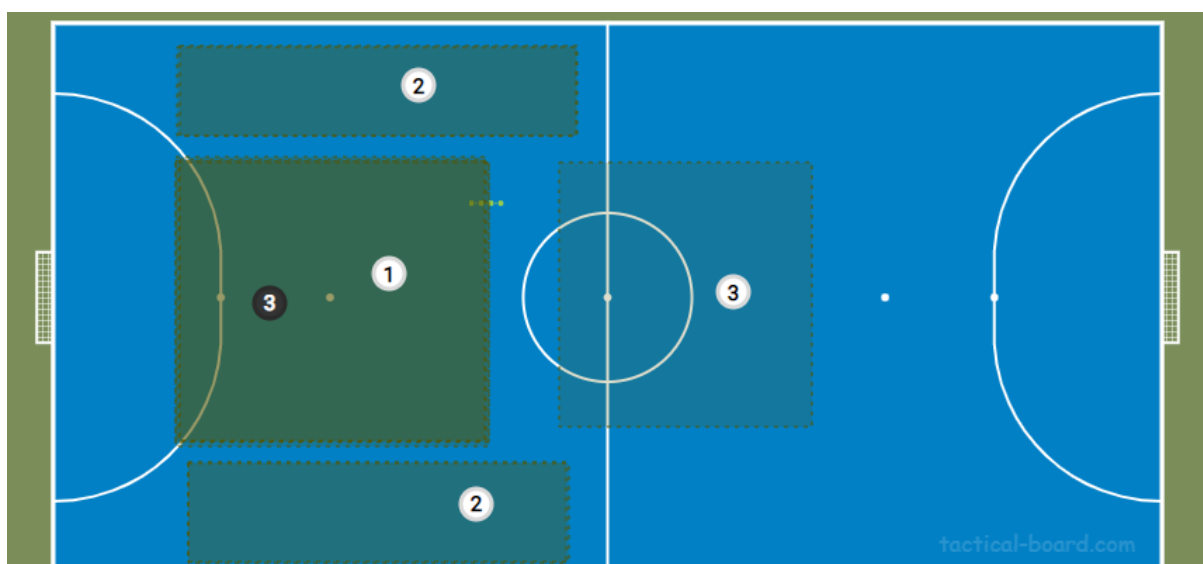

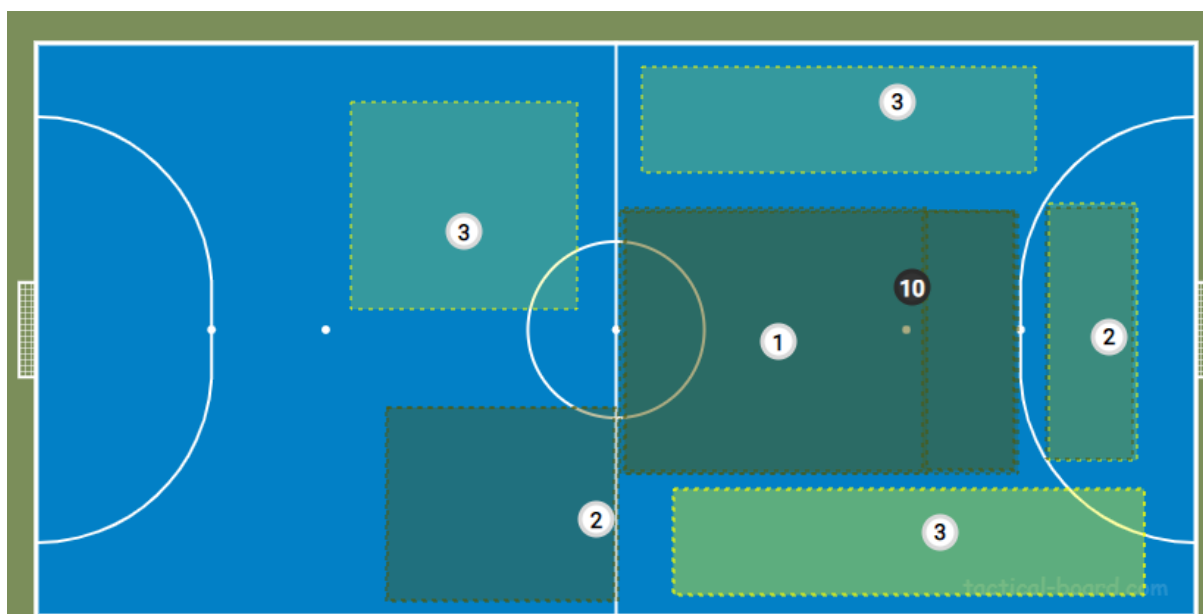

We will be able to force many errors in the above marked zone.

SUIGHURS FC-ZONES AND ROLES

ACTION ZONES FOR EACH PLAYER-priority order is marked by white chips

ROLES:

#30:

Shotstopper and will require to pass through balls and play out from the back. Occupies the cdm position when we are in final third. No specific goalkeeper for the match.

#3:

Centre-back. Will take care of defensive duties in out half and act as inverted midfielder when our team is attacking. Will have to close in on attackers when they dribble and try their best to minimize gaps. Will also have to ball-play with an emphasis to penetrate lines.

#6:

Starts at left back who will use PnP to beat his man. Box to Box player who will be needed to carry out both offensive and defensive duties. Will act as the second cb when we play a deep block.

#10:

Will require to carry both offensive and defensive duties but to a lesser extent. Will press the opponents in their own half to force errors. Will interchange positions with #14 during pressing. Identified as the second forward.

#14:

Trequarista, complete and pressing forward, as well as poacher. Will gegenpress in opponents half and drop deep to find space and create channels. Expected to carry out defensive duties to a small extent.

Football is not like basketball. In basketball you shoot 50 times and the opponent does it once and you win every single game. It doesn't work in football like that. You can do it the opposite way around and lose 1-0.
